

GREENEX LAVANDULA ANG. 'THUMBELINA LEIGH'

For more information, please visit GREENEX.COM or CONTACT YOUR LOCAL SALES REPRESENTATIVE.

THUMBELINA LEIGH

Lavandula angustifolia

Lavandula angustifolia Thumbelina Leigh is a charming miniature Lavender with intensely compact flower heads very similar to Grape Hyacinth.

It's habit is neat and compact with mid green fine fragrant foliage and flowers are intensely bright and beautiful with very compact thumb to ball shape heads.

After the first flowering usually early summer the plant should be cut back by half and shaped to the desired form and a second flowering will occur.

Thumbelina Leigh is the most early flowering angustifolia variety on the market, with early flowering from March throughout the summer until the frost sets in.

Thumbelina Leigh is a good plant for pots on the patio, but it also thrives very well in flowerbeds in the garden. Thumbelina Leigh maturing to a height of about 40 cm (16").

Thumbelina Leigh is the most compact variety currently in production and is drought resistant/drought tolerant.

Images sourced: Floriadania.dk

THUMBELINA LEIGH

Lavandula angustifolia

Flower:

Intensely compact flower heads very similar to Grape Hyacinth.

Flowers are intensely bright and beautiful with very compact thumb to ball shape heads.

Growth:

Compact with mid green fine fragrant foliage.

Recommended pot size:

6-12 cm (2-5").

Availability:

As URC & Callus URC all year round.

